be.ez JUST AS SKINS POPPED UP for mobile devices and laptops, fashion has now made its way to laptop carrying cases. Surprise, surprise.

"If beautiful has become the dictum for contemporary design, it is unfortunately too often used to the detriment of practicality. For us the object should be functional before being beautiful.

"Our conception is both contemporary and rational, a design well thought out, simple and above all functional."

You've already made a statement by purchasing a laptop or netback. Why stop with the machine? Why not add some flare along with your functionality?

THE JUICE

LAgarde robe is a hybrid between a sleeve and a regular laptop bag. With a choice of several colors, it is equipped with three large pockets for carrying peripherals, paperwork, what-have-you (aside from the main laptop compartment). A standard shoulder strap is also included.

THE PULP

Nothing groundbreaking. It is somewhat stylish and is made from quality materials. And I am surprised at just how much stuff you can pack into it, considering it's smaller size.

THE RIND

Nada.

SUMMARY

As I said, LAgarde robe brings nothing new to the table. My guess is that your decision will be based on style, more than anything else, so let your taste be the judge.

Still, it serves its purpose and afterall, isn't that what you're paying for?
